Alison PARKINSON

Alison attended Art School, she taught Art, restored Furniture and has been a creator all her life.

Oil Painting, Ceramic Sculpture and Drawing are her chosen modalities; these used to express herself and her world of inspiration.

Participated in many exhibitions and has a constant stream of portraiture and landscape commissions.

Parkinson taught drawing at the Art Gallery of Ballarat.

Living in the beauty of Mount Prospect for the last 22 years. She recently has been painting landscapes and creating posters around the AusNet Tower protest.

This series of Still Lives has a nostalgic and meditative feeling, a pause, a gently slowing down and considered placements, as the quiet colours allow the chosen objects to shine.

Objects from my personal collection, remind me of times seemingly gone.

When the pleasure of crafting objects was so important. The merging of Aesthetics and Function, creating Beauty.

Enjoy.
